Catherine O'Sullivan Wins Re-Election Of Presidency

Poor Percentage Of Votes Shown

Catherine O'Sullivan was re-elected president of the Student Body of S. T. C. Friday, April 11, at the annual election. Marion Donaldson was chosen vice-president; Alice Zander, secretary; Ruth Reay, treasurer; and Dorothy Williamson, yell leader.

Elected for the Annual Board of Directors were: Betty Kennedy, Claire Howard, Edith Schultze, Elizabeth Moller, Sylvia Burke, Marguerite Schweitzer, Betty Brown and Mary Kallmar.

For the members of the Bay Leaf Board of Control were chosen: Bertha Binter, Edna Denhard, Elizabeth Baker, Sarah Mason, Marian Phillips, and Anna Sanbraillo.

The polls opened Friday at nine o'clock and closed at four.

Representatives of the different classes relayed all day at the polls, checking off names of students who came to vote. Dorothy Asher of May '32 was the first student to vote. This class also led in number of voters. There were, however, only about 450 votes cast out of a possible 753.

After the polls closed the returns were announced by Miss Levy, chairman of the Student Affairs Committee.

Campaign week took place from Monday, April 7, to Friday April 11. Posters, signs, placards, and pennants, boosting the various candidates adorned the halls of the college all during that week. It was rumored that there were many more to be put up, but that no inch of space remained.

In order to run for office a candidate must have a petition circulated and signed by fifty students. This done, and other qualifications met, the student became a nominee. The candidates made their speeches at a rally held Thursday at 12:20.

It has been stated by many students that this election was not as spirited as previous ones. However, they account for this by the fact that, with the change in the campus and buildings, comes a change or a pause in the college spirit.

The fact that so few voted, students think, is because the polls were so far removed from the main halls. These polls or voting machines were in the main entrance to Anderson Hall.

These three machines, and also men to supervise them were sent to the college without cost by the city. The city sends this apparatus to all schools here as a means of educating the voters.

At a recent meeting of the Student Welfare Committee, a motion was put forward and seconded advocating the placing of bulletin boards for official notices in conspicuous places in the campus buildings. Mrs. Ellsworth presided as chairman.

At the suggestion of Dr. Barney the committee recommended that there be employed a matron to take charge of the college women's rest rooms. This matron has already been employed.

And Now, Films Sold at Co-op

"All right, smile." Click. And that's all there is to it. A couple of days later, you can call at the Bookstore and get your girl's snapshot.

Leave it to the Co-op store to furnish all the essentials of college life. The latest addition to its variegated stock is a brand new kodak with a big stack of films. Anybody can use the camera free-of-charge between classes or over week-ends. The only thing to be remembered about this tempting offer is the principle of "first come, first served."

Mrs. Marples says that the demand for the "picturesque paraphernalia" is already pretty high. It seems that there's quite a fad now to get "shots" taken out on the campus. Students are likely to stumble upon enterprising young photographers at all hours.

Maybe it's Spring. Then, again, it might be Love. But, whatever it is, the film roles on.

Enthusiasm Shown At Sport Dance

Large clusters of colored balloons, japanese lanterns, and "Cy" Trobbes rhythmic dance music all contributed to the success of the W. A. A. sport dance held Friday evening, April 4.

The members of the W. A. A. and their friends danced from 9:15 until midnight. There were ten dances on the program. During a waltz number the balloons, which were strung near the ceiling of the "gym," were released, and for a few minutes every one tried to see how many balloons he could pop.

One of the features of the evening was the ping pong table on the veranda. When dancing became tiresome, guests played a game of ping pong for diversion. It was discovered later that, due to some of the "hefty" strokes employed by the men, two of the ping pong racquets were broken.

The Japanese lanterns which decorated the campus lent a colorful note to the whole scene. It is the hope of many who attended this affair that the W. A. A. sport dance will become an annual affair.

Marian Donaldson, W. A. A. president, was in charge of the affair. She was assisted by the following: Edith Gaines, Gladys Bennerd, Mildred Smith, Dot Bartels, Pauline McDonald, Leah Boehm, and Lena Watt.

At a banquet given at the Western Women's Club, Wednesday, April 2, 1930, San Francisco State Teachers' College participated in honoring Miss Ruth Pyrtle, chairman of the classroom division of the National Teachers Association. She has been a guest of San Francisco teachers.

Dr. Roberts designated Dr. Valentine to represent the college.

San Jose Clubs Join T. C. Club

The Stanford campus was the meeting place for the Scribes Club representatives and several literary clubs from San Jose State College, Saturday, April 5.

This joint meeting was the result of several letters of invitation from the Scribes members of S. T. C., and the meeting was held for the purpose of joining San Jose clubs and S. T. C. Scribes in a literary fraternity.

The law building at Stanford was thrown open for the thirty men and women who had come to discuss the possibility of a fraternity. Representing S. T. C. were Miss Talbert, sponsor of the S. T. C. club, alumnae and active members from San Francisco. From San Jose came Dr. Henry Meade Bland, poet laureate, delegate of the poetry, drama, and short story sections of the English department. The parley opened at two o'clock.

With Dr. Bland of San Jose as temporary chairman, it was decided that a literary organization should be started, first to include San Jose college and S. T. C., later to include other California State colleges. This will be an association of creative writers, and the objective will be the publishing of a quarterly magazine containing original work of the members.

Tentative plans for the progress of the organization were immediately put in order. A committee of three was selected from each club to draft a constitution, and select the best name for the club that has been submitted.

The members on the committee from S. T. C. are: Miss Helen Jorgenson, president of the Scribes, Miss Ciwa Griffiths, past president, and Miss Rita Shields, alumnae representative. The San Jose committee are Miss Gladys Hares, Mrs. Reid, and Miss Ava Fazecher.

A correspondence committee, consisting of Miss Vivien Olson of T. C. and Mr. Miller and Dr. Bland of San Jose will circulate invitations to other State colleges in California.

On May 3, another meeting will be held to complete the program of the new association. At this meeting officers will be elected, the constitution will be adopted, and the date for the first publication of the magazine will be decided.

This organization has long been sought by members of the Scribes, and it is hoped that it will further creative writing in all teachers' colleges, besides making a step toward a good organization to which writers may set as a goal.

Franciscan Work Draws Near End

Well on its way to completion, the 1930 "Franciscan" will have end-sheets depicting Joe and Betty College contemplating the moon on the shore of San Francisco Bay. The end-sheets consist of the two pages just inside the cover.

Leona Rose, the editor, Amy Taubman, Pearl Levin and Ciwa Griffiths have been diligently working on the copy during the past two weeks.

Dorothy Doelker, advertising manager, with the assistance of her staff, has brought the amount of advertisements close to $600. The puppet show of March 7 netted a profit of $43.

Finishing Touch Is Given To Operetta Of Glee Club

Training School Names Statues

Over the main entrance of the new training school Miss Grace Carter and Mr. Arthur Gist gravely face each other, while, from a window a few feet away, Dr. Rypins gazes in all his wisdom up towards the mist that shrouds Twin Peaks.

At least this is what the pupils of the training school have been calling the figures of education and the owl that decorate the front of the new building.

Last week when Dr. Roberts was informed of the honor conferred upon the three faculty people, he readily admitted that they could represent none else than "Grace, Art, and Wisdom."

Training School To Be Dedicated

The alumni of this college will join in the dedication exercises at the new Frederic Burk Training School, May 3, at 10 A. M. The day will be a sort of "home coming" event for many hundreds of S. T. C. alumni. When they assemble in front of the new school, Mary M. Cooney will give the opening address. This will be followed by three short talks: "The Past," by Mrs. C. Alfred Sankey, Jr., "The Present," by Mrs. Joseph Jones, and "The Future," by Miss Catherine O'Sullivan.

A college president has never expressed deeper indebtedness to an alumni association than has Dr. Roberts to the Alumni of S. T. C. Therefore, it is not beyond expectations that the activities of this year will be bigger and better than ever before.

All alumni members planning to participate in the dedication exercises have been asked to notify Miss Vance at once.

Prohibition Contest Opened To College

The California Women's Christian Temperance Union is sponsoring a public speaking contest on the subject: "The Significance in Human Progress of the World Movement Against Alcohol and Narcotic Drugs."

Local prizes of $10, $7, $5, and $3 are offered for speeches of ten minutes on the above subject. The student winning first prize will be eligible to enter the state contest to be held May 1. The State prize will be $25.

The local contest will be held at the college, and any member of the student body may enter. At least ten students must indicate their intentions of entering the contest before the awards will be authorized.

Mrs. Louisa Taft, National W. C. T. U. Field Secretary, has left a great deal of prohibition literature with Mrs. Ellsworth. This is available in Mrs. Ellsworth's office.

Several members of the Delta Sigma (Debating Society) have entered.

'Lolita' To Be Given Next Friday

"The big night" of the Glee Club will soon be here, Friday evening, April 25, its spectacular operetta, "Lolita", will be presented by a company numbering not less than sixty-five young women. Among the performers there will be ten young men who are a fine-looking lot of toreodors—and can they do the tango!

Miss Levy, who is one of the sponsors of the Glee Club, is the chief director of the operetta. She has been assisted by Miss Ida Wyatt, a professional dancing instructor of this city. As a result of their combined efforts, "Lolita" is to be featured by beautiful choruses, both singing and dancing. It has been said that some of the "biggest hits" of the show are to be "Estudiantilla", the "Gypsy Dance", and the "Tango". But even the most clever steps, from those in "Valencia" to those in Bim and Bam's burlesque dance, cannot surpass the exquisite solos, duets, nor the quartet.

"Gorgeous, shimmering costumes of every hue in the solar spectrum will truly dazzle the eye." Not only will the Spanish ladies and the Gypsy rovers be magnificiently arrayed, but also will the gay cabelleros from the sunny hills of Spain.

"Lolita" was written by Viola Giesen, Avis Khun, and Orenda Woods. The first two authors are active members of the club; the other is a past-president. The pianists are Miss Madeline Meginness and Miss Catherine O'Sullivan.

On the night of the presentation, Dr. Roberts has kindly consented to offer the "gratitudes", between the first and second acts, to those people who were instrumental in producing the operetta.

Before the prologue and between the acts, the College Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Knuth, will give several selections. The principal soloists are also to be accompanied by instrumental arrangement.

According to those in charge of the program, the following women are outstanding Spanish stars: Dorothy Asher, Countess Isabella of Spain; Edith Schulze, her daughter; Avis Khun, Fedalme of the Gypsies; Rose Ruscito, her grandaughter; Frances Stelzner, Bimbo; Myrtle Saxe, Bambo; Aileen Broderson, Rita.

S. T. C. placement bureau records reveal the fact that elementary and junior high school teachers have greater freedom in selecting their majors and minors, than high school teachers. Dean Du Four says that, "so far we have had no difficulty in placing teachers because of their choice in majors and minors."

The high school teacher meets quite a different situation, according to a recent survey made by the University of California. The Social Science and English majors have greater competition to meet than the majors in any other subject of the curriculum.

EDITORIAL

Why Not Think?

At the last regularly scheduled class meetings several amendments were made to the constitution.

Perhaps the constitution needed amending. We are not denying that, but we are denying that the clause dealing with the election of members to the Bay Leaf Board of Control needed amending. It did not! The editorial staff, the executive body, and every part of the Bay Leaf ran very smoothly and harmoniously under the old system which provided for a board of six members to serve a year each, three of which were to be elected each semester. Under this system there were always three old members on the board which means that the members had charge all the time, instead of the sponsor of the board or the editorial staff. The new system provides for a board of six members to serve a year each and to be elected all at the same time which means that they will also leave office at the same timee. The result is very evident; there will be a period at the beginning of each fall of complete reorganization of the board, which means more work for everyone connected with the Bay Leaf. This situation could readily have been prevented if members of the student body had asked a few questions or done even a small amount of thinking before blindly and unthinkingly voting "yes" to all of the presented amendments.

The worst part of the whole thing is that the Bay Leaf board and staff were not consulted before the amendment was presented to the student body.

Vote!

Once before an editorial has appeared about the possible change of the name of this institution. Whether the San Francisco State Teachers College should be changed to the San Francisco State College, or not, has been a topic of discussion for more than the past semester.

We have heard many heated arguments on both sides, and as the change is largely a matter for the student body of the college to decide, we would like to know the opinion of the students.

Therefore, appearing below this editorial is a ballot. Please vote "yes" or "no" and drop the ballot into the Bay Leaf T. N. T. box that is just below the stairway leading to the Book Store.

All votes must be in by 4:00 o'clock, April 22.

In spite of the warning that was given at the beginning of the semester stating that T. N. T. articles could not be printed unless the student's right name was attached, several have been received, but they have not been printed.

Dear T. N. T. :

After waiting and waiting and then waiting some more to use our one and only public telephone. I am so disgusted that I must give vent to my feelings some way so please may I cause an explosion in your column?

Why can't we have at least one more telephone installed in the building? Judging from figures appearing in a recent edition of the Bay Leaf, there must be nearly a thousand students here. Do you think it would be asking too much to have one phone per 500 students instead of one phone per 1000 students?

—Perplexed.

Dear Perplexed:

The Student Book Store seems to be gradually acquiring all the comforts of a modern co-op store. Maybe a few phones will be installed in its proximity in time.

T. N. T.

P. S. Did you know that there is another phone over at Anderson Hall?

T. N. T.

T. N. T. Editor:

Why should this institution be so juvenile? Why are the students treated less like adults than they are in high school? You probably can't answer these questions, but you ought to answer this: Why is the Bay Leaf so dumb?

That the news is stale can't be helped—but that the jokes are stale can be helped. Why isn't there one good feature column? If the Daily Californian can have a good editorial, the California, the Periscope and the Lighthouse every day, why can't the Bay Leaf equal one of these once in two weeks. There must be one clever person in the student body. I have read high school papers far better than the Bay Leaf.

Yours for something worth reading in the Bay Leaf.

—Griped.

Dear Griped:

Probably the main reason "the BAY LEAF is so dumb" is because students with brilliant ideas and the ability to see the faults in the publication have neither the will nor the ability to do some of the work themselves.

Why don't you join the journalism class?

—T. N. T.

P. S.—Do you know any good jokes?

Dear T. N. T.

May I ask you and the other students of our college a question? Thank you.

Could it be possible for this college to have assemblies—real assemblies—during the varied hours scheduled for assemblies?

Dont' you think that we could have something more than lectures? It is easily seen how the majority of the students here feel about the present system.

Then, doesn't this useless expensiveness of these so-called assemblies bother you? It does me. According to rumor, many of these lecturers and performers charge at least fifty dollars an hour. And they have been paid from our student-body funds. Is this fair? All the students paying fifty dollars an hour for that which only about one-sixth of the student-body bother to attend.

I believe that much college spirit could be developed through real get-to-gether student assemblies.

Yours for revolutionized assemblies.

—Y. F. R. A.

Dear Y. F. R. A.:

These are my sentiments too!

If assemblies get any more like classes, students present will be sitting with their notebooks on knees and pencils in hand prepared to take notes.

Dear Editor:

Is this a modern college or just an old ladies' seminary? Must we disregard our mutual interest in the male sex entirely if we wish to remain in favor with the faculty here? Certain professors know how to make life miserable for those of us who happen to find just as much pleasure in male company as we do in female. Is there any possible cure for this? We have tried keeping out of their sight, but, personally, I do not enjoy being a criminal.

Yours,
—Needsom Freedom.

Dear Needsom Freedom:

This institution was a girls' college for such a long time that perhaps some faculty members resent the intrusion of something new. Give them time. They'll probably come out of the rut themselves.

"The teachers of Buffalo find material aid and inspiration from the book, 'Visual Education in the Public Schools' by Anna Veronna Dorris, instructor at S. T. C. We refer to it constantly. After a year of experimenting in the Buffalo schools we substantiate the claims for the effectiveness of visual teaching which are made in this book." These are a few of the comments made by Superintendent of Schools, Dr. E. C. Hartwell, in summarizing the results of a 16-page report, that was given to the New York Elementary Principals' Association in March. The teachers of Portland, Oregon, have used Mrs. Dorris' book to guide them in organizing a new Visual Education Department.

The Annual Board of Control held a meeting, Monday, April 7, at which the entire "Franciscan" staff was present.

The purpose of the meeting, over which Gertrude Gibson presided, was to remind the students of the pressing need for advertisements.

WHOZIT?

Pauline McDonald, president of the high senior class, refused to speak when the reporter interviewed her. This backwardness on the part of Pauline was due partly to her modesty, and partly to the fact that a bad cold had temporarily robbed her of her voice. However, a few facts were finally secured through some fairly well known devices.

Miss McDonald claims Pinole (near Richmond), as her home town. She has lived there all her life. When she was a very little girl she decided to become a teacher. The idea stayed with her, and according to Pauline, that accounts for her being here.

At Richmond High School, Pauline took an active part in clubs and athletics. She has kept up her good record at S. T. C. During the past two years, she has been a member of the W. A. A., the Art Club, and Nyoda Club.

In regard to hobbies, it seems Pauline has only one, tennis, although bridge has taken up many minutes of her leisure.

Pauline is not coming back next fall for her degree, but she intends to get it by attending future summer sessions.

Candidates Rally Held In Room "L"

Six "Rahs" for the candidates opened the peppy election rally held in Room "L," Thursday, April 10. Leah Boehm, yell leader, presided.

Starting with the nominees for the Bay Leaf Board of Control, each candidate gave a short campaign speech. The "gist" of most of the speeches was summed up by Ruth Reay whose motto was, "stand up, speak up, and shut up." The candidates were seated in a semi-circle in front of the students so that they could be easily seen and heard.

After speeches by all of the office-seekers, Dorothy Williams, nominee for yell-leader closed the rally with a number of peppy yells.

Festival Preview Proves Success

A premier of the Dance Festival was given at the mass meeting held April 4 in the gymnasium.

A Danish dance, giving a peep into the first part of the program, "Spring Folk Festival", and the Cloud dance, giving a peep into the second part of the program, were the Natural Dances given.

Mrs. Scott, director of the festival, gave a short talk; then she introduced Dorothy Casewell, chairman of the ticket committee. Irma Gerske, business manager, urged everybody and her "date" to attend the festival.

Tickets are now on sale, and the committee urges the students to buy their tickets early.

That a teacher must take into consideration her health more today than ever before, is revealed by the increasing demand for health certificates.

Dr. Barney maintains that "the minimum amount of credits may give the student a teacher's credential, but only the maximum amount of health will insure that teacher's success."

Practice teaching cannot be started until the teacher has a health certificate from Dr. Barney. A health certificate is on file with every teacher's credential in the State office at Sacramento. Dr. Barney points out that the teacher's health is not only a personal asset, but also an economic factor demanding her first consideration.

D. P. U. Receive April Convention

Members of S. T. C. chapter of Delta Phi Upsilon will be on their toes, Tuesday, April 15, when three representatives of the Grand Council from Pasadena hold their annual inspection.

The review will take place at the home of Miss Barbour, who is a sponsor of this chapter. Upon completing the ceremony the group will go to the Studio Tea Room for dinner.

After dinner the alumna inspection will be held at the Western Women's Club.

A benefit bridge tea was given by the alumnae in the tapestry room of the Fairmont Hotel, Saturday afternoon, April 5.

Elizabeth Bruns and Dorothy McGuffin, alumnae members, were in charge of the affair.

There were twelve tables of bridge. Louise Brown of Chico won the room prize, a beautiful Italian pottery vase.

Quiet Marks Stop Of Steam Shovel

Students can no longer give the excuse that they failed in examinations because the noise of the steam shovel prevented them from hearing the instructor's lectures. The steam shovel has now departed and the terraces are completed.

With the completion of the terraces, final plans have been made for building two tennis courts to the south of the one now in use. By a special line arrangement it will be possible to use these courts for four handball games. The courts may also be used for volleyball and indoor baseball.

The first shipment of furniture for the new building arrived Friday, April 4. The new desks for the pupils are due April 17.

Under the leadership of a recent graduate, Miss Thomas, the Vallejo Public Schools are carrying on an extensive and constructive program in the field of Visual Instruction. The teachers of Vallejo find a place for visual aids in every grade and department of the schools.

Mrs. Dorris will speak for the teachers of Vallejo, April 14, on "Visual Aid in the Public Schools."

Nyoda Club Fetes Orphan Children

The Easter rabbit will visit the grounds of the Protestant Orphanage, 1801 Vicenete Avenue, under the sponsorship of a group of S. T. C. students when the Nyoda Club gives its annual Eastern egg hunt to the orphans Tuesday afternoon, April 15.

Colorful baskets for the occasion are now being made by the club members. Each child will get one of these baskets filled with eggs.

Many ties bind the orphanage with S. T. C. The orphanage had its beginning on the property now occupied by this college. The two square blocks were purchased by the founders of the orphanage for $100 in 1853. The stone wall, recently torn down by the excavators was donated by the Spring Valley Water Company, 75 years ago.

Nyoda club members, after looking over the menu that is scientifically planned by the dietician, wished their boarding house could be as generous. Perfect neatness and immaculateness is taken for granted. A glimpse into the children's bedroom-closets proved this was not only a theory. The orphanage is built in a series of large cottages and a main office building. Each house has its own sitting room, study hall, dining room, and several good sized bedrooms.

Second Field Trip Taken By Class

It was, of course, to study nature that seventy-five students went to Redwood City on a field trip, Thursday, March 10, but it is said that the picnic held afterwards at Miss Ried's home had much to do with the large atendance.

The class began their study on the campus of the Sequoia High School. This school boasts of forty acres of the most beautiful campus in America. There was much of value studied there. From Sequoia the students went on to the foothills.

Busy at their work on trees, shrubs, birds, and wild and cultivated flowers, the biologists worked until seven o'clock. At this time the party adjourned to the home of Miss Ried, their instructor. An enjoyable picnic was indulged in here, and a hilarious time was had.

That field trips are really interesting and full of thrills is the opinion held by those students who attended this one. There are now plans underway for more of this kind.

Plans Made For Summer Session

The visiting educators who will make up the faculty for the coming Summer Session will form the most able group ever assembled at S. T. C. during this session.

These instructors give our students a chance to see what other schools have to offer. Some of them have specialized in subjects that are not given here during the regular term.

Among the coursese being offered is one which has been designed especially for those students who have difficulty in rote singing. Miss Hall, who gave a very interesting course last summer, assisted by another talented instructor, will be in charge of this course.

This year there has been introduced into the summer program a new feature which will mean greater service to the student group and to the teachers of the state. In addition to a regular program of courses extending over a six-week period, there has been organized a group of courses extending over the first three weeks only, and a second group extending over the second three weeks. Between thirty and fifty such courses will be open. In some cases a two-unit course will be divided into two parts, part A and part B. It will not be necessary for one student to register in both parts. It is believed that this departure from the traditional six-week plan of organization is a step forward in making this summer school of even greater importance to the teaching profession than ever before.

Statistics show that San Francisco turns out more teachers than any other teachers college in the State, and its summer sessions draw more students than any other teachers college. The regular class work will be relieved by many social events. There will be many extensive trips to the parks, museums, and other places of interest.

Last year 1317 students were registered in the summer school. Of this number 943 were non-resident people, while 374 were regular S. T. C. pupils. Ten high school graduates were in attendance. The summer school "has the edge" on the regular session as far as co-education is concerned. In 1928 there were 101 male students; in 1929 there were 114.

T. C. Furnishes Radio Entertainer

Another student from T. C. has joined the ranks of those playing over the "Mike".

Station KJBS now features Mrs. Florence Alexander in violin solos every Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, from four-tthirty to five. Though this is her first experience in faculty work over the radio, Mrs. Alenander has toured the United States several seasons doing circuit work for a Chataqua Circuit.

Besides teaching the violin to a group of children from the Frederic Burk School, Mrs. Alexander is furthering her music ability, and is studying the clarinet at the college.

Mrs. Alexander has received a great deal of fan mail.

Dr. Biddle has an article in this month's "American Registered Pharmacist," on the Four Year Curriculum for Pharmacy Colleges.

In his article, Dr. Biddle compared pharmacy colleges with teachers' colleges; in their advance toward higher curriculum standards.

Dr. Biddle is one of the leaders in pharmaceutical training. He has long been an advocate for a more balanced education for students specializing in professional fields.

Staff and Board Of Control Dine

Members of the Bay Leaf Staff were hostesses at a dinner given for the Bay Leaf Board of Control and the business manager, Wednesday, April 9, at Girard's.

Ciwa Griffiths, editor, introduced the speakers.

Miss Anderson gave a very interesting talk on the origin of the paper's name. She told the history of the paper, from the time it first started as a small mimeograhed, literary sheet. Miss Anderson also explained the new method of election for the Bay Leaf Board of Control.

Mr. Butler in his talk, compared the mode of choosing the editorial staff which was used when the paper was first started with the method now in use. This is Mr. Butler's last term as a teacher of journalism, but he assured the staff that he intended always to be interested in the success of the Bay Leaf.

Margaret Lemon, business manager, thanked the staff and Board of Control for their cooperation with the business staff.

The dinner was declared a success by all those who attended. This affair was arranged by Mildred Scott and Louise Cilco.

New Book Series Arrive At Library

Miss Fleming, head of the library, announced that the first volume of the new series of the "Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences," has been placed on the shelf in the library. The set is to be published in fifteen volumes. It is the only one of its kind on the market.

The third and fourth volumes of the new "Dictionary of American Biography," have also been received in the library. These volumes are a part of another series to be published one volume at a time.

Students taking the penmanship course, or practicing handwriting for the test, will be interested in knowing that the "Business Educator" for March 1930, is in the library. It is a magazine that shows correct penmanship and methods for learning good handwriting.

College Buys New Orchestra Music

Several hundred dollars worth of new music is now being purchased by the college orchestra for its library.

This collection includes Beethoven's First Symphony, Hayden's Twelfth Symphony, and many of the other well known standard overtures by old masters. There are also many by the present day composers.

This repertoire will afford material for abundant practice as well as a wide choice of selections to play at public appearances.

On the orchestra's calendar for the near future are many performances at which some of this music will be played.

Several selections will be played at the coming dance festival. At this time the orchestra will accompany the Glee Club's three songs from "The Nutcracker's Suite."

Faculty Member To Return From Trip

Mrs. Olive Cowell, a faculty member of S. T. C. who has been abroad almost a year and a half, will return this coming August to take up her duties as a Social Science instructor here.

She has been traveling through Europe and Asia with her husband. It has been rumored that this lengthy trip is a belated honeymoon. However that may be, Mrs. Cowell spent mostt of her time in Central Europe studying.

She visited in Ireland, which is her husband's home. At the present time she is in the Orient studying the Eastern customs and methods of education of the oriental race.

On her return to this college Mrs. Cowell will teach the ever-popular course, Constitution. While abroad she has been preparing a new course, International Law, which will be offered in the fall semester.

Mrs. Cowell, an expert ice skater, often participated in the jolly ice skating parties arranged by the W. A. A. members. In this way she has become a favorite with the young women of the college who are anxiously awaiting her return.

THE GREAT MEADOW

Elizabeth Madox Roberts

From Albenacle westward a little cavalcade makes its slow way. The smaller children ride. If a woman must carry a baby, she rides also. Otherwise the horses are loaded with salt and lead, precious grain for the journey and the future sowing, an iron pot or two, a peuter tankard and spoon, and wool and linen. The men carry their rifles across their arms. In a rainstorm, or while fording a river, it is the powder that at all costs must be kept dry. The comforts of the plantation, the houses with board floors, the full larders, the riches of sheep and cattle and swine—all these have been left behind by the little band. Around them the trackless forest sheds a mysterious, mottled light. Ahead is their trail, poorly marked, stony going, over mountains and across streams—the road to "Kentuck", the promised land, rich with cane fields, alive with Indians, a land for the taking; but one that only strong men can take.

This is the milien of Elizabeth Madox Roberts' latest novel. She relates the progress of one such pilgrimage, that of Berk and Diony, from Five Oaks to Harrod's Fort, in the late seventies of the eighteenth century. The civilization they leave behind them in Virginia is primitive enough, yet it knows comfort and plenty. It knows the delights of Gray and Milton and Shakespeare, as well as the solace of a full stomach and a warm back in winter. They ride forward into a land that is in the process of being wrested from the Indians. These Indians scalp women, they burn dwellings made with infinite patience by one pair of hands.

Into this grim reality, Berk and Diony go as bride and groom, into the protection of the little stockade at Herrod's Fort in Kentucky. There they know birth and death, the joys of love, the pinch of hunger and cold, the pain of separation. There, too, Diony, who marries again after Berk's long absence has convinced her he is dead, must make the bitter choice between him and her new husband when Berk unexpectedly returns.

All this Miss Roberts tells very gravely, in rich detail, and with a kind of slow candor that is very comforting.

May '33 Victor In Interclass Meet

By winning all but one event, Peg Carrol ran away with the W. A. A. interclass swimming meet, held Tuesday, April 1. Margot Aase, representing the May '32 class, won the one event not captured by Miss Carrol, the plunge for distance.

The 21-yard side stroke, the 21-yard crawl, and the spoon carry were won by the representative of May '33, Miss Carrol.

Miss Holtz served as referee; Phyllis Powell was clerk of course; Alma Downey was scorer; the finish judges were Mildred Scott, Betty Moller, and Ida Lane; Dale Browne was timer, and Mary Mortigia was starter.

The meet was held at the Y. W. C. A. tank on Sutter street. The next swimming event will be a meet between this college and the Y. W. C. A. team. All those interested are urged to see the Swimming Manager, Margot Aase, at once.

Another Sorority Added To T. C.

The Home Economics Club of S. T. C. has just recently become affiliated with the National Home Economics Association.

This organization will no longer be known as the Home Economics Club but by the Greek name, Delta Sigma Nu. S. T. C. now has two national sororities on its campus.

Other colleges affiliated with the National Home Economics Association are Chico, San Jose, Fresno, Santa Barbara, U. C., and Mills College.

The purpose of Delta Sigma Nu is to further the young womens' interest in Home Economics at college, to render service to the school whenever possible, and to promote sociability. At present, members of the club are helping with the costumes for the May Festival which will take place May 2, 1930.

Miss Spellman was the sponsor of the old Home Economics Club, and a great deal of the success of that club is due her. She advises the new organization.

The officers of the club are: Catherine Brennan, president; Gola Sanders, vice-president; and Alice Rich, secretary-treasurer.

Arnesen To Visit Southern California

Dr. Arnesen has received an invitation to present three courses in literature at the University of Southern California this summer.

Two of the courses, "Renaissance Literature" and "World Literature", were outlined for him; the third course is to be "Literary Aesthetics", of which he has made a special study.

He doesn't know just how they found out about his special interest, he says, but he is delighted to have the opportunity to deal with his favorite subject, as well as to visit Southern California once more.

Dr. Arnesen made his first acquaintance with this part of the state during the war. As a marine he was stationed, for some time, on North Island, San Diego.

Having already traveled through Alaska and along the extreme north coast, Dr. Arnesen expects to complete his tour of the Pacific Coast by traveling into Lower California before returning to San Francisco, this fall.

Spills Are Feature Of Skating Party

Spills to the right of them, spills to the left of them, spills front and rear of them, as they rolled forward. The spills took place at the roller skating party held by the W. A. A., Friday, March 31, at the "spill emporium" on the corner of Jones and Eddy streets.

The rink is ideal, as there are mirrors on both sides. This gives the skaters an opportunity to see themselves perform—and fall.

A race on skates and a balloon bust made up the entertainment. "Dot" Guinn won the first prize in the race. Gladys Bennard won the balloon bust race. Helen Vida won honorable mention in the balloon relay.

"Red" Merrick was in charge of the affair.

New Venture To Be Made By Club

The College Theatre is trying a new experiment. Instead of the customary three act play, they are presenting two one-act plays.

The first, "Good Night", is a love farce. The parts are taken by Evelyn Richards and Elbert Ashand.

The second play is "Easy Terms", a farce of domestic life. The cast for this play includes Ed White, Pricilla Lehmann, and one other who has not yet been chosen.

Both plays promise many giggles and guffaws. No one has any excuse for not seeing these presentations for they are to be given at noon in Room L, Tuesday, April 21. Miss Casebolt expresses her hope that the student body will support this new venture.

S. T. C. Debators Meet With Dames

The world will never know whether married women should stay at home and mend hubby's socks or whether they should have careers—all because no judges were appointed and no decision reached at the debate held Wednesday, March 24, between two organizations of the college.

The question, "Resolved, that marriage and a career may be successfully combined," was hotly defended by a team from the Franciscan Dames and as hotly attacked by a team from the Delta Sigma, alias the Debating Club.

The negative side mentioned the careers of Jane Adams, Florence Nightingale, and Anne Morgan, while the affirmative emphasized the success of such celebrities as Madam Schumann Heink, Mary Roberts Rheinhart, and some of our own faculty members.

The question of practicability and the problem of children were also discussed by both sides, and the debate proved to be one of utmost interest to all of its participants.

PRE-REGISTRATION CLOSES APRIL 25th

Senior Farewell Dinner A Success

The hi-seniors attended their last class dinner, Wednesday evening, March 27, at Kelly's Tavern.

Members of the class sat in groups around small tables which were decorated with black-eyed susans and greens furnished by the management of the tavern. The favors in green and gold revealed the future of each one present. The reading of the prophecies furnished much amusement for the party. The great variety of fortunes was due to Verda Webb and Mildred Isaakson.

During the courses several short speeches were made. Among those who spoke were: Dr. Roberts, Dean Du Four, and Pauline McDonald, president of the class. Dr. Roberts expressed his regrets that the dinner was the last to be held by the class.

Dean Du Four gave a pre-view of the Senior Week program. He promised that that week would be crammed full of activities.

Other entertainment was furnished by class members. Lena Bacigalupi gave several readings. Verda Webb contributed two pianologues to the program.

The success of the dinner was due to those on the committee which consisted of Kay Hamaker, chairman; Lucille Donelon, Verda Webb, Mildred Isaakson, and Minnie Kern.

Guests for the evening were: Dr. and Mrs. Roberts, Dean and Mrs. Du Four, Miss Ward, Miss Levy, Dr. Michell, Miss Holmes, Miss Barbour, Miss England, Miss McFadden, and Miss Vance.

Musicians Plan To Have New Room

Members of the college orchestra are anxiously looking forward to the time, not far off, when they will move into their new headquarters. In fact, most of the musicians are coming back to summer school just to get the thrill of playing in the new music hall, which will be finished by that time.

It will be a large, well lighted room on the top floor of the present training school building facing Herman street. At one end of the room will be the instructor's office and a practice room. Here also, will be numerous lockers for various separate instruments.

This music room, which is to be used for two years, is planned as an experiment to help in the planning of the permanent music room in the new building.

Appeal Made For Vacation Helpers

An appeal has been made to the Siena Club for volunteer help to serve in Catholic Vacation schools during the month of July. There are to be five such schools in San Francisco and several in the outlying districts.

The president of the Siena Club urges the young women to give at least one hour a week for this.

The program consists of catechism instruction, art, supervised play, sewing, manual training, and an activity period. Schools will be opened in the forenoon only. Kathleen Prendegast or Claudine Heflin are willing to give information to the interested.

Franciscan Dames Feted At Bridge

Members of the Franciscan Dames Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Ruth Herndon in Ingleside on Friday evening, March 21.

Bridge was played until a late hour, and then refreshments were served. The prize for the highest bridge score was awarded to Mrs. Elizabeth Cooke, while the second prize was won by Mrs. Edna Walthall.

Excitement was lent to the occasion when two of the members who live across the bay found that they had just missed the K car, which was to take them to the ferry. A wild midnight ride through the intricate avenues of St. Francis Wood ensued, and ended in a breathless but successful overtaking of the car at the mouth of the tunnel.

Mrs. Herndon's guests included Mesdames E. Phillips, Laura Denman, Elizabeth Cooke, Clara Baker, Edna Walthall, Fern Carlton, Eleanor Fontes, and Mrs. Herndon's mother, Mrs. Caroline Roth, and sister, Miss Edith Roth.

Sickness Overtakes Staff Of Library

It seems that some unforseen and unexplained ghost has cast its shadow upon the library staff and the leading faculty. Many have been seriously ill during the course of this semester.

First, Mrs. Marples was ill with pneumonia and was forced to drop her work. Miss Bastin is now home for the same cause. Miss Richards has been ill with swollen glands. Mr. Marples has fallen a victim to the undignified mumps. Both Mrs. Cooch and Miss Smith have been away from the college for several days.

But that is not all that is wrong in the library.

"Many students," said Miss Fleming, "are extremely thoughtless and careless about putting books back on the shelves. Students of S. T. C. are given library privileges for their advantage and help, and they should show a small amount of appreciation by returning books to their proper shelves."

"I hope the students will cooperate hereafter," concluded Miss Fleming, "and I'm sure it won't be long before the hoodoo leaves the library."

Many Victims Of April Fool Found

All students and faculty on S. T. C. campus were not aware that Tuesday was April Fool's day, consequently, those who practised the "old American custom" were rewarded with the blank looks of their victims.

Miss Casebolt exhibited the worst face ever seen on the S. T. C. campus when she bit into a luscious "chocolate covered almond" which turned out to be a fruit of the more odorous variety. Miss Casebolt said that she could never enjoy garlic.

Jessee Iverson was the unfortunate victim of a similar ruse. Jesse was enjoying his lunch when he was offered a piece of delicious cocoanut candy. Jesse never loathe to eat, jumped at the chance. "What kind of candy is this?" asked Jessee. "It's kinda tough, but it's really not bad." Later Jesse discovered that he had eaten a choice lump of the mills finest pine excelsior.

Miss McFadden picked up a mechanical match box but the steady nerves of the biologist failed to give way, and the class was disappointed. Miss McFadden, however, was mystified by the aroma of garlic which persisted in her "lab" class.

There were others who forgot the date also, but perhaps they would rather remain unknown. Next year the spirit of garlic and the wisp of excelsior will come back to remind the busy students here to beware of a smiling face and a tempting tidbit when the calendar points out the day, April 1.

Members of Mrs. Ellsworth's Public Speaking class were unable to come to a decision on the question: Resolved—Early marriages are more successful than late marriages. The debate, Friday, March 21, ended in a tie.

On the affirmative side were Frances Shock, Marguerite Schweizer, and Margaret Petray. The negative team consisted of Elena Foppiano, Elma Richards, and Dorothy Singer.

Miss Foppiano was adjudged first best speaker. Grace Kaufner presided as chairman. The remaining students acted as judges, entering their decisions on printed grading blanks.
